Our City Comment & discussion

by THOMAS D. WATSON

Have You Big Patches Of Weeds On That Vacant Lot?

WE are today in receipt of a letter from one of our readers which calls attention to an evil existing in nearly all sections of our city. As the letter arrived too late for this issue we will print it tomorrow.

This citizen of Glendale makes some constructive criticism about the unsightly appearance of certain districts of Glendale caused by the rank growth of weeds. We have taken this matter to heart for we, along with many other citizens, are among the guilty. We for our part are making arrangements today so that no more weeds on our property will meet the gaze of the visitor. How many more will join in cleaning up the vacant lots they own?

THE Glendale city council could not see its way clear to join in a cleanup campaign which was proposed by the citizens committee of the Chamber of Commerce some time back. However, this action need not interfere with a cleanup by the citizens.

THE bill fire from which Glendale had a narrow escape is a very good reason for the cutting down and removal of all weeds. All property near a vacant lot filled with weeds is daily in danger from this unnecessary fire hazard.

The city officials will no doubt before long recognize the danger in these weeds and order a cleanup by the citizens. Let's not wait for this to be necessary but clean them off at once. No better time than now.

REMOVAL of all weeds and rubbish from the vacant lots and alleys will help to beautify our city. According to all reports a large number of winter visitors are now bound for California. They will soon be looking for places to reside, some perhaps only temporarily but many permanent.

PERHAPS the only chance they will have to judge the different cities will be by driving through them. First impressions are generally lasting ones. Let's be sure that their first glance at Glendale will leave a good impression.

It is much easier to gain the appellation of the "City Beautiful" than that of the "Fastest Growing City in America."

MAY BE ANOTHER FOE FOR DEMPSEY

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Another contender for Jack Dempsey's heavyweight crown may arise from a series of elimination tests expected to take place during the winter season.

The first important encounter having a bearing on the heavy weight ring situation is likely to be between Floyd Johnson of Iowa and Jack Renault, the Canadian champion. Johnson has been improving steadily since his knock-out at the hands of Jess Willard last May while Renault has added several victims to his list.

The winner of a Johnson-Renault bout probably will be matched with the victor of the proposed contest between Georges Carpentier of France and Tom Gihbons of St. Paul. Carpentier has accepted terms offered him by Tex Rickard but Gihbons has not yet come to a definite agreement with promoter. Dempsey already has a return match with Luis Angel Firpo on his 1924 program and may also face Harry Willis, negro challenger, who has been on the champion's trail for more than a year.

HOSPITALS LOSING MONEY?

[By Associated Press]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—More than 90 per cent of the hospitals in California "are being conducted at a financial loss to their owners or supporters to the medical profession who staff them," Dr. Dudley Smith of Oakland, president of the League for the Conservation of Public Health, said today in an address at the opening session of the third annual conference of the hospitals of the state.

"There are about 500 hospitals in California," Dr. Smith said. "There are approximately 45,000 hospital beds of which 35,000 are constantly occupied. It costs $4.50 to maintain a hospital bed for one day, which totals $160,000 a day or $60,000,000 a year for all hospitals."

SAN FERNANDO RD. MUST BE 100 FEET WIDE, IS OPINION

Co. Planning Commission Favors Work, Advises Speed

The widening of San Fernando road between city limits was unanimously favored last night at the Cerritos school by the South Glendale Improvement association.

Hugh R. Pomeroy of Redondo, member of the Los Angeles County Planning commission, outlined some of the problems of this board and emphasized the importance of widening San Fernando road if property owners are to obtain any should be widened in sections or traffic.

No objection was raised by anyone present to the widening of San Fernando road but the discussion centered about two points: First, whether it should be made 80 or 100 feet wide; second, whether it should be widened in sections or all at once.

A test vote revealed the fact that everyone voting was in favor of the 100-foot highway but doubt was expressed as to whether property owners not present could be made to realize its desirability.

Different viewpoints in regard to the length of street to be widened at one time were expressed by Mrs. May P. Moberly of 1011 South San Fernando road, who denounced the improvement in "dinky little bits," and Realtor L. H. Wilson of 1034 South San Fernando road, who recommended that the proceedings for the widening of the street between Los Feliz road and Los Angeles street, which have already been approved by the city council, be allowed to continue.

"I don't know whether the city of Los Angeles has any definite improvement program for the widening of San Fernando road in the city of Los Angeles, remarked Mr. Pomeroy. "The recommendation of the County Planning Commission would be a 100-foot highway. I do not know what your frame of mind is or what your intentions are, but I can assure you that the regional planning commission is ready to cooperate with you in every way."

Mr. Pomeroy left the meeting well pleased with the "frame of mind" exhibited by those present and satisfied they will not be content until San Fernando road has been widened.

Mrs. E. V. Bacon of 3502 Revere avenue acted as chairman of the meeting and Mrs. J. V. Zimmerman of 449 West Garfield avenue as its secretary. R. E. Johnston of 444 South San Fernando road, J. D. Treadwell of 1936 South San Fernando road also expressed themselves in favor of the improvement proceedings.

Councilman W. A. Horn of 221 N. Louise street, explained the attitude of the city administration as being more than favorable.

THEY WANT WEST BROADWAY WIDENED

The city council will be asked tonight by the West Broadway Improvement association to start proceedings for the widening of West Broadway from Central avenue to Pacific, according to a statement made this morning by O. M. Newberry of 1077 South Central avenue, this morning.

Petitions for the widening of this stretch of road have been circulated during the past two or three weeks and they are now before the city clerk who is checking them over to ascertain the percent of street frontage represented. The property owners who are asking that this work be done are anxious to get it under way at the earliest possible moment.

Petitions have also been started for the widening of the stretch of ornamental lights along Broadway from Central to San Fernando road. These will be presented to the council, it is understood, at its meeting next week.

HARRY RIMMERS TALKS ON EVOLUTION

As part of the organized campaign to oppose the theory of evolution, which is being led by William Jennings Bryan, Harry Rimmers, the well known Y. M. C. A. worker, has given considerable thought and research to the matter, delivered a popular lecture in the Tropic Presbyterian church Wednesday night, which was very well attended. He presented his theme in an attractive manner and apparently carried his audience with him.

TINKLE, TINKLE, TELEPHONE BELL AS LINERS SELL

Talk about growth! If the classified department of the Glendale Press grows any faster in the future than it has in the past, the metropolitan dailies will have to go some to retain their laurels along this line. That is the little tinkle that came down the line today.

From the moment the bell rang at 9 o'clock this morning, announcing the beginning of the first round, until the closing bell at noon, the Press classified department, consisting of "Harriet," "Ellie," "G. A." and "Bob," were on their toes every minute. They were like four grains of pop corn on a red hot stove and the way they bounced from phone to phone was good to see.

It was five rounds of the hottest classified slugging the Press has ever known. There was a knock down every second. The crew had the former record groggy from the opening of the first stanza, and quite a while before noon it went over for the count. And every classified printed is a legitimate advertisement. No padding is ever practiced in connection with the Glendale Press liners.

It just goes to show what will happen when the actual, proven pulling power of a classified department becomes known.

RUMORS ARE RIFE AS TO RAILROAD DEVELOPMENT

Santa Fe Is Said to Have Completed Survey for New Valley Line

Rumors of railroad development continue to filter through the veil of secrecy with which all railroad work is mantled and some of it is entirely without foundation. The latest one, however, may have more substance than the many others. Be that as it may it is a rumor only and all Glendale can do is to hope that it is more.

The Santa Fe is said to have completed a survey of a new line from Los Angeles to Bakersfield at which point it will make a connection with its present line to Frisco, said to indicate a new tunnel through the mountain, coming out at the edge of the town of Newhall.

It is said to then pass through the Castaic canyon, under the ridge route highway, coming out somewhere near Castaic lake.

From here the survey is said to take an easy grade down into the San Joaquin valley and on to Bakersfield.

This line, if it should be built, would make a short cut to San Francisco from Los Angeles and would add another road to the San Fernando valley which would be a valuable development to Glendale and all towns touched by it.

CHEST COMMITTEES TO MEET TONIGHT

Burton McGinnis, secretary of the Community Welfare Chest, incorporated, has asked the Press to broadcast through its columns the news that members of the budget, finance and publicity committees are meeting tonight at the Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 o'clock to decide upon the plan and ways and means of promoting the drive for the chest. Every member of the committees mentioned is urged to be present.

GREAT HEART OF THE CITY BEATS IN SYMPATHY WITH THOSE BEREFT BY FIRE

Not One Person or Organization Has Refused to Aid in Great Benefit Performance to Be Given Monday, October 29

BANKS ALREADY HAVE HAD MONEY PAID IN

No More Worthy Cause Ever Offered Than This of Providing for the Widow and the Fatherless, and an Aged Mother Bereft of Her Only Son

It has been said that nothing is ever unanimous in this world so varied are the workings of the human mind. That saying will have to be revised now, for not one person or organization in all the wide expanse of this beautiful city of Glendale has been found who opposes the giving of a great benefit entertainment to swell the fund being collected by the banks of the city to provide for the needs of dependents left by Glendale's two fire victims, Clarence Edwards and J. W. McGahan. On the contrary, everyone approached gives instant and hearty assent, coupled with an offer of unstinted aid. Men, women and organizations vie with each other in generous rivalry to see which will lend first aid, last aid and greatest aid.

The whole city is stirred to its depths by the mute but pathetic appeal of the widow who lost her life companion, the sweet little girl whose darling daddy will hold them never again in loving embrace, the worshipping mother whose idolized only son is gone, never to return.

Does someone ask, "Why does a just God allow such a sacrifice of strong young manhood so needed in the world?" The question cannot be answered, but surely "He doeth all things well," and one comforting thought is that such calamities bring out all that is purest and best in human nature.

It is to be a community affair in which all can unite, regardless of politics, religion or business interests. This has been made clear by the wonderful response which has come from every organization approached through its officials, and because this is so it has been agreed it is one of the things which Community Service can appropriately do. For just such things as it is organized, and its president, Val Hollister, was one of the first to pledge his co-operation. It has a paid secretary who is proficient in such work. He has plenty of time, hence is competent to put it over. For that reason the work of arranging a program and working out the details of carrying on the affair has been turned over to Community Service.

At an all-day meeting of the women's societies of the Glendale Presbyterian church, held in the new building on Tuesday, $5 was subscribed from the treasury of the organization for the fund being raised and similar reports are coming in from other organizations.

The matter came up at a meeting of the Central Union Labor council held in Los Angeles Wednesday night, which was attended by quite a large delegation from the Glendale council and subscriptions totaling $10 were collected on the spot, which have been turned in to one of the banks by Carl Schwitter of this city, with a promise that more from the same source will be forthcoming.

The above are samples of reports coming by mail, telephone and word of mouth. The date for the big benefit performance, which will be participated in by many organizations, bands and Glendale artists in various lines, has been tentatively set for Monday, October 29.

It was suggested that the Chamber of Commerce appoint a committee of its members to aid in the work, this committee to appoint a treasurer to whom all the funds collected by the banks from the receipts of the benefit performance and from any other source, should be turned over. This committee, as appointed, consists of Dan Campbell, chairman; Herman Nelson, A. T. Cowan, Chalmers Day and A. G. Spahr. It is understood that this committee is to meet tonight to appoint a treasurer.

THE WEATHER Southern California: Fair tonight and Friday; gentle north-easterly winds.

ROTARIANS HAVE MANY VISITORS AND PLAN PARTY

Also Plan to Go to Church, Every Member and His Wife

Glendale Rotarians met today noon at their regular meeting place, the Egyptian Village cafe. To say that the meeting was an enthusiastic one would be putting it altogether too mildly. It was one of the most enthusiastic as well as the best in attendance the club has ever had.

Over fifty members and visitors were present, among them being the following: Jerome B. Pendleton, San Diego, Cal.; Ben E. Barnard, Mitchell, S. D.; John W. Woollett, Sacramento; Charles E. Royal, Vancouver, B. C.; F. H. Farquharson, Trinidad, Colo.; J. J. King, and F. Curt Miller, Burbank; Thomas M. Sizer and James H. Kindel, Pasadena; Elliott B. Wyman, Charles E. Benson, and Al. Borden of Los Angeles.

President George Kerr presided and Owen Emery led the singing. In response to the call for reports of committees, Bill Hunter, chairman of the Halloween party, announced that the party would be held on Friday, November 2, at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. It was to be a costume but not a masquerade affair.

All Rotarians and Rotariennes are expected to be present as well as their adult children. Attention was also called to the fact that the women's body is going to attend the First Baptist Church next Sunday evening, Ernest Ford, a member of the club, being the pastor. The members are to meet at Val Hollister's and go from there.

Next Thursday's meeting will be held at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, at which time the Rotary club would be host to the other business clubs of the city. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, pastor of the Temple Baptist church of Los Angeles will be the speaker and he will deliver his "Keys and address known as "Keys and address."

After the announcements, Dr. Henry Harrower of the Harrower Laboratory was the speaker of the meeting and he delivered a very interesting talk on the experiences he had during a recent visit to Germany.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS WILL COST LESS AFTER NOV. 15

Railroad Commission Orders Cuts on All Classes of Service

[By Associated Press]

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Householders served by the Southern California Edison company will pay less for their lighting after November 15 than they did before the war, while other classes of consumers also will have their charges materially reduced, according to an order of the state railroad commission made public today.

Southern California's rate for domestic lighting service is cut from 7.9 cents a kilowatt hour to 6.5 cents. The pre-war rate for this service in this territory was 7 cents.

Percentage of reductions in power rates for resale is 7½ per cent. This latter reduction applies to the cities of Los Angeles, Burbank, Glendale, Azusa, Riverside, Anaheim, and Tehachapi, which purchase their power at wholesale from the company and distribute it to the people at rates fixed by themselves.

The saving to consumers to be served by the company under the new rates is estimated by the commission at $2,200,000 yearly.

TRY TO CLEAR UP SAN DIEGO MYSTERY

[By Associated Press]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 18.—With picks and shovels, officers today began a search of two San Diego houses formerly owned by George E. Schick, wealthy San Diego realty man, who has been missing since last February, and whose wife, Mrs. Margaret Schick, and E. Drew Clark, business associates, are now held in the county jail on charges of having forged Schick's name to various property deeds. At the same time other officers, also with picks and shovels, departed for several spots in San Diego county, the exact locations of which are held secret, and it was said may also go to Imperial county.

Grand jury investigation of the case was scheduled to start at 2 o'clock this afternoon. An important witness who is scheduled to arrive in San Diego today from Mexico is Mrs. Grace Lucille Mason, former owner of a lingerie store here and who is said to have been backed in the business by Schick. Mrs. Mason is said to be coming to San Diego voluntarily.

Many contradictions in the stories told by Clark, Mrs. Schick and Mrs. Clark are said to have been found by officers who have been grilling them. The two women declare that Schick returned to his home here three different nights after his disappearance. Both women deny that Schick appeared in the daytime although his signature appears on deeds supposedly sworn to before a notary public during daylight hours. Clark, on the contrary, declares that Schick returned on four different occasions, three of which were at night and one during an afternoon at which time he signed the deeds. Mrs. Schick also stated that both Clark and Mrs. Clark were present on each of Schick's visits, while Mrs. Clark denies that she was present.

In her story Mrs. Clark stated that her husband had frequently been in trouble over married women in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Honolulu, and also in San Diego. They were married in Alameda in 1909, she stated.

Investigation of Clark's financial dealings is said to have disclosed that while he was practically penniless before he met Schick, that since the disappearance of the latter he has deposited in a local bank nearly $5,500.

MRS. CUNNINGHAM IS HOME FROM P. E. O. MEET

Mrs. Eva Cunningham has just returned from Seattle, Wash., where she went as one of the fifteen delegates from California to the Supreme P. E. O. convention, at which 435 accredited delegates were welcomed and about 700 visitors. As usual the theme stressed was the educational work to which the P. E. O.s are committed. Mrs. Vina Bowdgn of Missouri was elected president, the first vice presidency coming to California, and being bestowed upon Mrs. Patience Beatty of Los Angeles. The convention lasted four days, one of which was given to a trip to Victoria. On the way home Mrs. Cunningham visited friends in Portland and Salem, Ore.

BOUQUETS AND UNANIMITY RULE REALTY BOARD

Bouquets, unanimous votes and general good will were the order of the day at the meeting of the Glendale Realty board yesterday at Jensen's Egyptian Village. Preliminary reports of the convention in Sacramento were given by several of those who attended and a vote of thanks was given by those who were compelled to stay home to those who went north.

The board unanimously voted a subscription of $100 toward the Glendale Fire Victims' Testimonial fund, contributions to which are being received at the various banks of the city.

The committee in charge of the membership drive, which closed last night, reported that up to noon 54 new members had been secured in the drive, bringing the membership of the board up to 110. The committee, which consists of W. L. Truitt, chairman, Mrs. Stewart, W. B. McClish, Mr. Schuyler and J. I. Wernette, was thanked for the work done and a motion to this effect was unanimously adopted.

In speaking of this membership campaign, Charles B. Guthrie, who acted as chairman of the meeting, said:

"To Mr. Truitt and his committee goes the credit of putting Glendale in the 3-director class. The only other boards in the state have three directors are Los Angeles, Oakland, Southwest of Los Angeles, Sacramento and Long Beach. This is one of the biggest things that has happened to Glendale for a long time."

"During the past week," said Mr. Truitt, "one passive member has joined the board, (referring to his own daughter that was born recently). She is a regular realtor, for she came to Glendale with a flag in one hand and a tract map in the other."

During his remarks on the doings at the convention Mr. Guthrie stated that Glendale's whistles made a hit—when the whistle blew the people instinctively thought "Glendale."

Special credit was given to Peter Hanson for his work in the Home Town contest, Miss Traver, office secretary of the board, C. B. Guthrie, who was elected vice president in charge of the Seventh Regional district, and others.

The appointment of J. I. Wernette as the third delegate to the state association from the Glendale board was unanimously endorsed on motion of Dr. Jesse A. Russell.

In a well-worded speech, Mrs. Gaskill, in behalf of those who were compelled to stay home from the convention, thanked those who went and who unselfishly gave of their time and energy in putting Glendale on the map.

That Glendale will get the first conference of the Seventh Regional district of the California state convention, was the assurance given the members.

Mr. Guthrie stated that the subject of this convention will be "multiple listing" and that on that occasion several prominent and capable speakers on this subject will be present and deliver addresses.

A mammoth get-acquainted entertainment will be given on November 13 by the old members of the Glendale Realty board to the new members, numbering between 50 and 60.

Thrills in Army Race as Pilot Braves Collision with Pylon to Save Distance at St. Louis Meet

One of the aviators had already made the turn and a competitor he had outdistanced in the Merchants' Exchange event "hugged" the pylon so closely that spectators expected a crash.

U. S. TELEPHONE SYSTEM ENVY OF FRENCH NATION

The telephone is "an instrument of everyday use in the United States," but "an item of luxury in France and at the same time of very restricted value to a French subscriber," declared some of the speakers at meetings held during Posts, Telegraph and Telephone Week in France.

In fact the French telephone service came in for some very candid criticism at these conferences, which were held under the auspices of the president of France and of the officials in charge of the French government postal and wire services. The long distance telephone lines "were said to be so unsatisfactory as to be hardly a factor in communication in France," writes the American Commercial Attache at Paris in his account of the conference, and he adds: "Rural service is in its infancy."

It is encouraging to learn, however, that responsible officials commented very severely on the inferior service rendered by the telephone system, and that discussions indicated that the government appreciates the necessity for marked improvement in the service. A few weeks after the conferences ended, the French parliament approved a plan for the expenditure of a large sum of money on telephone development during the next five years.

Although only incidental reference was made at the conference to the possibility of giving the telephone service over to private operation, resolutions were adopted at the close of the sessions recommending, among other things, the development of the telephone service in the country through the organization of small co-operative companies.

The Girl Scouts with their efficient captain, Mrs. Jessie Hansen, are making extensive plans for their Halloween party to be held at the school auditorium Saturday evening, October 27. Admission will be 25 cents and a cordial invitation is extended to all residents of the valley.

The many friends of Mrs. V. B. Clafin will be happy to learn she is much improved. Mrs. Clafin, a former resident of La Crescenta, but living in Los Angeles since the past few months, was suddenly stricken with glaucoma and it was at first feared she had lost her sight. A later report, however, is more hopeful.

Mrs. Gertrude Weller and daughter Georgia June of New York, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Armstrong of 149 East Mayfield over Sunday.

The entertainment committee of the La Crescenta Woman's club with Mrs. M. S. Collins as chairman, is planning to make the first dance, tomorrow evening, one of the happiest affairs of the season. In November the committee will have its first card evening, which will be held at the school auditorium, Thursday evening, November 22. On November 17, they will entertain with their second dancing party. Other dances scheduled for the season will be held on December 15, January 12, February 16, March 15, April 12 and May 17.

Mrs. H. Carpenter left last week for an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. P. C. Girvin of Oakland, Calif.

Robert Wildhack of South Los Angeles avenue left Tuesday for New York, where he will be a guest of the "Dutch Treat" club at a reunion.

Decrease in Homes Owned in California

California was one of thirty-one states in the Union in which the percentage of families owning their homes showed a decrease during the period from 1900 to 1920, according to a pamphlet, "How to Own Your Home," which has been issued as a handbook for prospective home owners by the Department of Commerce. In 1900 the percentage of families in California owning homes comprised 46 per cent, and in 1920 this had dropped to 43.7 per cent, compared with 47.9 per cent for the three Pacific States. In spite of this, however, the Pacific States ranked fourth in 1920 in home ownership and above the average for the entire country, which was 45.6 per cent. This means that out of every 1000 families living in California in 1920, 437 owned their homes.

GLENDALE FAMILY HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Presence of mind averted what might have been a tragedy when the automobile driven by G. L. Woodford, 336 East Loraine street, Glendale, got beyond control on a steep grade near Crystal lake Tuesday and was wrecked. Mr. Woodford and family had driven up the hillside to look over some property, when the engine failed, the machine then starting backward. In order to avoid running into the lake Mr. Woodford made a sharp turn with the steering wheel, which overturned the car and threw its six occupants in all directions. The others in the car with Mr. Woodford were his wife, their year-old baby and Betty Jane, Phyllis Ann and George Woodford. Bruises, cuts and shock were the extent of the injuries.

START OF ARMY AVIATORS' ENDURANCE FLIGHT THAT LASTED 37 1/4 HOURS

This photograph was made at Rockwell field, San Diego, Calif., when Captain Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant John P. Richter were about to hop off on their record-breaking flight. They remained in the air 37 hours, 15 minutes, 15 seconds, and had flown 3200 miles. Their plane was refueled while in flight by two other planes and their food was furnished by the same machines. The photograph shows Captain Smith in the front seat of the plane and Lieutenant Richter in the rear. Major Henry H. Arnold is seen wishing them good luck.

HIP-T. A. HAS LARGE ATTENDANCE AT FIRST SESSION

The first session of the High school P.T. A. for the new school year argued well for the work of the coming year. It was held in the music room of the Household Arts building with so large an attendance that many chairs had to be brought in to seat members. Mrs. C. H. Whitney, the new head of the organization, presided with gracious dignity and made a little speech of greeting in which she voiced the encouragement it was to her to inaugurate the year's work with such a rally. She dwelt on the aim of the P.T. A. to bring the home and the school close together by co-operating for the welfare of the child, and named the members of the executive board, asking those present to stand as they were introduced. No president's speech, ever had a finer, more loyal staff of officers and committee heads.

Mrs. George U. Moyle, vice-principal, presented the greetings of the high school and faculty, telling of the high esteem in which the P.T. A. is held by the students. She mentioned the special events of the week, the football games Thursday and Friday, and the girls' stunt party for juniors and seniors Friday night in the girls' gym for which she distributed tickets to all mothers willing to go.

Mrs. P. O. Lucas, chairman of membership, announced that the board had decided to offer a membership prize of $25 to the class which influenced the largest number of others to join the association and attend the meetings, the attendance credits to be based on the percentage as compared with the number of students in the class. Mothers were asked to stand for the classes they represented and the roster stood: Ninth year 30, 10th, 17; 11th, 20; 12th, 10.

The special program of the afternoon by high school students opened with numbers by a trio composed of Marjorie Potts, cello; Lillian Sutton, violin; and Leonora Rose, piano. Cecil Chase recited "When Polly Buys a Hat." The girls' glee club sang "Gondola Song" (Roberts) and "Me an' mah Lil' Banjo" (Dichmont).

Mrs. C. H. Thompson, chairman of programs, announced that the speakers at the next meeting would be the heads of departments, who would explain the work of their divisions and its value in the all-around development of the child.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed in the school cafeteria when tea and cake were served.

"CALIFORNIA" WAS THE SUBJECT OF LITERATURE FOLK

"California, Its Past and Present Beauties and Interest" was the subject of the regular meeting of the literature section of the Tuesday Afternoon club held in the tea room Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. H. C. Wilcox presiding. This subject will be taken up by the section at various times during the year, when the different phases of California history and development will be discussed, as the members decided that they would like to have a further consideration of this wide topic.

Mrs. Wilcox was in charge of a brief business session and urged the promotion of friendship between the members of the section. To further this she announced that three hostesses would be appointed for each meeting, so that they could greet the members before the business meeting and also serve refreshments, if they so desire.

Mrs. McDougall, treasurer, reported $58.98 in the treasury. There were about thirty-five members and guests present. The following members answered to roll call by telling of some beauty spot in California: Mesdames Gilliland, Fortier, Empey, Abbey, Lang, Fessenden, Rapp, Webb, Davis, Verity, Mottern, Bolton, Wilcox, Schulte, Garlinghouse, Woodberry, McDougall, Adamson, Ferguson, Smith, Cleophas, Hollingsworth and Rowe.

Mrs. Lillian Empey read an interesting paper on "Early California Missions," taking the subject from the time of the establishment of the first mission here up to the present time. There are in California today remains of twenty-one missions. Mrs. E. W. Gilliland gave a paper on "California Indians," telling of their habits and religions and urging that the first Americans be given their right place and be given justice. Mrs. Garlinghouse led an informal discussion of California memories, during which the various members told interesting things about some of the older cities in the state.

Miss Dorothy Dagley, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Norman Ball, gave a group of entertaining musical readings, "What the Chimney Sang," "The Newly Weds" and "The Little Boy."

The program for the meeting of the literature section, the first Wednesday in November will be on "Great Achievements of Today," current events and a review of magazines. At the close of yesterday's meeting tea and waters were served.

Truths in Epigram

And while I at length debate and beat the bush, there shall step in other men and catch the burles. — Heywood (About 1565).

The soft droppings of rain pierce the hard marble.—Lyly (About 1573).
Young men are fitter to invent than to judge, fitter for execution than for counsel.—Bacon.

MORE LIGHT NEEDED

According to the cable of one news agency, 2,000,000 children in Germany will face starvation this winter unless the outside world aids them with money and food. This is a startling assertion; it is puzzling, and not in accord with other information that comes from time to time. There is a charity in this world that sends food wherever needed. It sent laden ships to Russia, and it strove, though in vain, to save the starving remnant of the Armenians. It would not permit German children to be without bread. But it will want to know more about the matter.

Since the war Germany has developed a group of prodigious wealth. So vastly rich have the members become that in any policy of government they must be reckoned with. Stinnes, for example, probably is master of more branches of industry, each immensely profitable, than any other individual in the world. Either this, or fictitious accounts have been broadcast concerning his activities. He and his immediate associates have almost a monopoly of raw materials, of manufacture and of transportation.

It is natural for some thought to arise that, if there is need of charity, it might be met without appeal to the world at large. The Germans are a proud people. For them to assume the pose of mendicancy would be a novel experience, and it may be assumed, one much to be dreaded by them. Moreover, so often has misleading propaganda been sent out from Germany, that reports concerning the dire straits of the children, are not likely to be accepted in the absence of corroborative evidence. Doubtless the facts will be ascertained, and the situation, whatever it may be, met in such a way as to avert the threatened tragedy.

WISE MR. GEORGE

Lloyd George has changed his program of speeches, much doubtless, to the disappointment of the cities lopped off the list. He is a wise man who realizes his physical limitations. Speaking tours have been ruinous to the health of more than one statesman. The visiting Englishman will be welcomed in every part of this country that remains on its itinerary, for his greatness has been recognized. His record for efficiency in the war was so high that nothing coming after is able to detract from the splendor of it. Beyond question he is one of the greatest of living Englishmen, his enemies in his own land being forced, however reluctantly, to admit his ability and his patriotism.

The course of Lloyd George since the war has not won unanimous approval. The attitude he assumed towards the conflict of Greece and Turkey had much to do with the downfall of his ministry. Nor have the methods to which he has resorted since, been deemed admirable by all. There was a feeling that he should have devoted himself to constructive policies rather than to railing at the policies of his successors. The medium he selected for reaching the public was such as may have called his good faith into question.

The fact is recognized that George is present in this country on a mission of good will. It is believed that he may have some plan for promotion of peace through the amicable association of the most powerful peoples. At any rate his message will be heard with courtesy, or even with hopeful eagerness.

THOSE HIGHER UPS

One of the difficulties in suppressing illicit traffic in narcotics is that peddlers when arrested are able to give whatever bail may be demanded. They may be very humble as to financial status, but the money to gain their freedom, no matter how large the sum, is forthcoming at once.

While this may seem to be unfortunate, perhaps it might be utilized as a substantial aid to justice. There could be no difficulty in tracing the bail money to its source. Having done this, the law could lay its hands upon the higher ups of the nefarious business. They are the greatest offenders. Without their co-operation and aid the small fry, operating in the shadows, would not be able to procure the stuff to sell, nor having been caught, be able to regain their liberty so readily as not to keep them out of touch with the patrons.

The dope evil is a menace so appalling that the safety of society calls for its repression. The fact is evident that the means of crushing it must be drastic and applied with the utmost severity, not sparing the criminal of whatever degree. There is no reason for recognizing any moral difference between the powerful financiers back of the trade, and the miserable creatures who attend to dispensing the poisons.

THE PROMISED PARADISE

Last April a little band left Fresno bound for Peru. That was the Land of Promise they had sighted, as they thought. All the enchantment was due to the distance of the view in this instance. The colonists are straggling home. They found conditions in Peru far different from what had been pictured. The hardships they faced were too severe to be endured. The fertile area they had sought turned out to be a desolation. It produced monkeys and parrots, which, while not acceptable as food, supplied the best available. They even had killed and eaten a puma, but the diet, despite this change, presented no charm.

It might be imagined that people suffering from oppression, or conscious of lack of opportunity, might seek a far land. This does not explain why any should feed the impulse to go from the United States to Peru, a place of strange language, strange customs, and of unknown resources. There could be no assurance that an American farmer could adapt himself to the novel environment, or that his knowledge of tillage could avail him in dealing with alien climate and soil. He could not be informed in advance as to markets. So far as he would still be in civilization, it would be so wholly foreign to his instincts that the idea of assimilation would be repugnant to him. He would have made himself a dweller in a place that never could be home; he would be as a man without a country.

No wonder the colonists came back. They must marvel now that they ever had gone away. Doubtless they will appreciate as never before the resources at command here, and the prospect of success, that once they abandoned, to go in pursuit of a phantom.

Representative Britton of Illinois was known to be favorable towards opening relations with Russia, at least on a commercial basis. He has just returned from a visit to that country with his views absolutely changed. He now declares against recognition of "a visionary government whose very foundation is based on murder, anarchy and theft." Such is his opinion of Russia after having seen and studied it.

Some scientists are holding out the promise of human life to last hundreds of years to the individual. Probably the promise will not be kept. It is not particularly cheering anyhow. There seems no reason by, with existence as it is, prolongation of the ordinary span, to centuries, should be desired by the discerning mortal.

One of the explanations of the retirement of George Harvey from the British ambassadorship is that he will lead an organized fight for maintenance of railroads under private ownership. The intimation that occasion exists for a campaign of the character indicated must be regarded as a surprise. However, when an ambassador quits correspondents always deem an explanation necessary.

Talk may be cheap, but some people use extravagant language.

THE MANIA FOR SLAUGHTER

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Before me as I write lie protests and warnings from three distinguished men against the madness of slaughter that has been terribly intensified by the automobile.

Herbert Quick's article is a simple protest against cruelty, very powerful and appealing. It does not go into the question of the automobile as an accessory before the fact to the murder of our beautiful wild life.

The new ally of destruction is dealt with by Dr. William T. Hornaday of the New York Zoological Garden and by Major A. Radclyffe Dugmore of England in an article soon to be published by the Permanent Wild Life Protection Fund in an effort to educate the public to some understanding of the ruthless and wanton annihilation of animal life that is being carried on by brutal hunters drunk with vanity and utterly careless of everything but the gratification of their blood lust.

Dr. Hornaday declares that the automobile has increased the peril of wild life 50 per cent. In addition to this he calls attention to the fact that with the automobile the haunts of game are hunted over not four or five but ten to twenty times annually and adds with commendable force: "The automobile is great for the killers but it is hell for the game."

The photographs published with Dr. Hornaday's articles are heart breaking and should alarm the entire thinking country. Automobiles completely covered with dead deer, festooned with quail until no parts of the machines are visible; large touring cars similarly draped in festoons of dead birds, ducks, geese and every other creature that can legally be shot in the brutal name of "sport."

And this condition obtains all over the world. From Australia come photographs that show the progress of extermination for the kangaroos and from the interior of Africa come pictures of the fate of the elephants. Major Dugmore has filled with the British government his report of conditions in British East Africa, where he says the new method of hunting is proving "appallingly disastrous" and he has declared that:

"The motor car sounds the death knell for African game unless prompt action is taken." With statistics from every country where the foot of sportsman tread these eminent men are calling to awaken people to the dangers of total and rapid extinction of all wild life unless something is done to stop the "sportsmen's" madness.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

We have the movie itch in our town. Not a blighted one of us can sit at home after 7 o'clock. Once upon a time we used to develop the latent possibilities of our minds, if so be it there were any, by reading heavy books. Now the only way we get through our weekly stint of reading is by lying about it. When a few neighbors get together we may be a little vague as to whether our government is a democracy or a mistake and conversation wits like a lily as soon as it reaches the higher altitudes of thought. But we can chatter like apes over the relative merits of Jackie Coogan and this here, new kid that took his place with Charley Chaplin.

"But it seems to me," says Doc Heineberry, "that we ought to do something to show these movie men where they get off."

There is one strikingly rotten picture house in our town. It is dark, sour, ill-arranged and its ushers are recruited entirely from the lower order of morons. All the best pictures go to it, by agreement of local trust, because otherwise no one would ever buy a ticket for the house at all.

"Why don't we tell 'em we won't stand it?" demands Doc passionately. That makes me laugh. I'm older than Doc, and I'm resigned to the fact that the folks of our town are the best drilled and disciplined people in the world. We never talk back. We don't even make faces. Once I tried to work up interest in a reserved seat plan for our picture house. That way I would not have to leave my dinner half way through and stand up in the rear of the house with a lot of other nitwits until some seated person gave up hope. But I didn't get anywhere with it. My friends said yes, yes, and let it go at that. The movie men said they didn't have to do any such a fool thing. So that was that.

You've got to have something to rebel with. That's why I have a sneaking admiration for some of the people I've seen in jail.

THE LISTENING POST

By JAMES W. FOLEY

Trinidad, October 16.
Is the life of a coal miner long? Does he live as long and is he as healthy as someone of the same physical strength working out of doors and in what we call the "fresh air"? Or is the miner a short lived individual who gradually fades away from hard labor and work underground?

In answer, hear my new made friend, Jack Hale, foreman of the Frederick mine of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company. Jack is tall, slender, straight. He is English, but you would say he was Irish if you did not know. He has teeth white as pearls, a short upper lip that shows a healthy red above his white teeth as he talks, his face is sooted with coal dust and he has just come out of the shaft, his day's work done except the making of his reports.

Jack began coal mining in Cumberland in England. He showed me a newspaper that he received recently from the old home place. It chronicled a celebration in honor of the oldest living coal miner, perhaps, in point of years and service.

He was employed at the mines in Cumberland, where Hale worked as a lad. The old man in question entered the mines when he was seven years of age, with his father who was also a coal miner. He was still in the same mine at ninety-two years of age, after a continuous service of eighty-five years, and was hale and hearty. The celebration was a matter of great interest among the Cumberland miners and at its close the old miner was presented with "a heavy purse of gold."

That would indicate that the life of a coal miner does not necessarily break down health. And neither should it. With ventilating apparatus and fans the air is kept as fresh as that of out doors. The air in the dry mines is humidified before it is sent into the ventilating shafts. It enters as vapor, so moist you can feel it wet upon your hand. It lays the dust, moistens the air below, keeps the miner in better health and lessens danger of explosion.

Men underground work in an even temperature. There is no rain or snow. The mines are kept well drained. No cold winds blow through them. The hours are not long—an eight-hour day here. Hard work, if there is fresh air and sufficient nourishment and recreation never hurt anybody.

The miners make eight to ten and twelve dollars a day when working. Some skilled men, cutters and the like, earn as high as three and even five hundred dollars a month. The average in good seasons is a very good rate of pay. There are lean times, but so there are in all occupations. Just now the miners are working a three-day week. That means a fair weekly rate of pay, that will increase as the demand for coal increases.

And what of the day of a coal miner? In the "light" room of the Frederick mine is a rack, like that in use in country hotels for the hanging of room keys. On each one of the hooks on that rack, and there are five hundred of them, is a brass check with a number on it. The checks are about the same as those the baggagemen used to exchange with you for your trunk. Each numbered check represents a man.

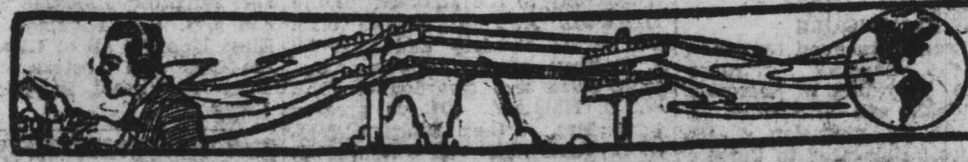

And the name of the man represented by each number is kept recorded with the office. When a man goes to work in the morning he takes his numbered check from the rack and puts it in his pocket. Then he goes to a rack and takes an electric lamp, with a tiny bulb, a wire connection and a dry battery to hang at his waist.

That light corresponds in number with the check he has taken from the rack. He puts the bulb on his cap peak, fastens the battery, and he is ready for work, after inspection by the foreman, who sees each man as he leaves the room, and that his light number and check number correspond.

Inside the mine opening he goes and disappears into the darkness that is sufficiently lighted by the tiny electric bulb in the peak of his cap. It is a drift three miles back to the hill. For these are not mines that go down into the coal veins from atop, but drift into them from the side of the vein.

Down there in the mine a coal cutter has been working. With a machine like a small tank, driving a chain armed with steel teeth at varying angles over a steel rod, the vein of coal is undercut for a distance of six feet back, and twenty-five to thirty feet along the vein.

Songs of the Poets

The Newly-Wed—By Winthrop M. Praed

Now the rite is duly done,
Now the word is spoken,
And the spell has made us one
Which may ne'er be broken;
Rest we, dearest, in our home,
Roam we o'er the heather:
We shall rest, and we shall roam
Shall be not together.

Death, who friends from friend can part,
Brother rend from brother,
Shall but link us, heart and heart,
Closer to each other:
We will call his anger play,
Deem his dart a feather,
When we meet him on our way
Hand in hand together.

From this hour the summer rose
Sweeter breathes to charm us;
From this hour the winter snows
Lighter fall to harm us.
Fair or foul—on land or sea—
Come the wind or weather,
Best and worst, what'er it be,
We shall share together.

THE PRAYER OF THE EMPEROR

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IN THE old days of the Emperors in China there was held every year at the Altar of Heaven an impressive ceremony. This Altar, the most imposing religious edifice in the whole world, was a vast circular structure rising in three massive grades. In the hour before dawn the Emperor came hither with the multitude of his court. It must have been a magnificent spectacle, all that horde of people in their gorgeous robes, the scene illuminated by the flashing of torches. There is no roof covering to this Altar, and above all there was only the starry sky.

Upon the top platform were only the sacrifices of the people. On the next below stood the Emperor, and there he made the Prayer to Heaven for his people. As he stood there he was handed a scroll containing the names of all the criminals that had been executed during the year. Having read it he made this prayer:

"God forgive me for my misgovernment, in failing to lead the people aright. For these men, through my own fault, I have had to condemn to death."
The Chinese were a very wise people and saw beneath the surface of things. The surface fact is that if a man commits a crime he alone is to blame for it, and when he is punished justice has been accomplished.

But there is a deeper truth than this, and that is, for the crime of every individual society and government are in part to blame. The Emperor recognized this fact in this prayer.

In considering this matter there are two errors which we must avoid: first, that the individual is wholly to blame, and second, that society is wholly to blame. Their guilt is mixed. Both are to blame. In the countries of western civilization we have gone too far in thinking that guilt is entirely individual, and that when a man is punished the account is squared.

The result of this is that we have gone on creating conditions that tend to produce and increase criminality. The prisons and jails of a nation are supposed to be the remedy for crime. As a matter of fact they are not. They make criminals and train them to greater efficiency in law-breaking. They are really "Crucibles of Crime." Out of the prisons of the United States every year there are turned loose into society some one hundred thousand graduates from the school of crime, one hundred thousand Bachelors, Masters and Doctors of crime.

This arises from the fact that society as a whole does not realize its responsibility. Of course, better government and better social conditions could not entirely do away with individual responsibility. There will always be certain perversa who break the law because of weak wills or the sheer love of evil.

But it should be recognized that these persons are diseased, they are abnormal precisely as if they had the small-pox or yellow fever. They cannot be cured by brutality and punishment any more than a man with influenza can be cured by beating him over the head, or an insane person can be cured by torture.

They can only be cured by physicians and not by jailors; that is, they can only be cured by people who start out with the idea of curing them, and not with the idea of making them suffer.

Society should always act as if it were to blame. This is the underlying principle of the modern movement of prison reform. It does not rest upon any sloppy sentimentality but upon the soundest statistics and upon psychological law and the facts of human nature.

Our present method of dealing with criminals is a proven failure; it might be improved if we should lay to heart the Prayer of the Emperor.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A rich citizen of Los Angeles has given $10,000 as a fund to aid children dismissed from an orphan's home in that city. His name is Isador Eisner, and he is at the head of a great business.

Mr. Eisner was not always rich. He has made his fortune by his own ability; and he remembers the days when he was poor. Recalling the hardships that beset his early path, he yields to the impulse to protect others from the harsh experiences he knew.

Perhaps some are all the better for experiencing hardships, but not all are qualified to endure them. Some wither under the blows of adversity. An orphan, having known no home but an institution, however kindly its purpose and methods, hardly could be regarded as equipped to step out into the world friendless and alone, and battle the way to success. At least a helping hand would be of great cheer, mostly because it would be the assurance of interest and sympathy.

The guess is ventured that no man with $10,000 to bestow ever placed it so as to pay him greater dividends in happiness than will flow to Mr. Eisner.

President Coolidge placed Governor Pinchot in a position almost certain to advance the latter's political interests. It was deemed a generous and thoughtful act, albeit some said it was not "good politics." As though the President of the United States should be playing politics.

Governor Pinchot takes the opportunity to attempt to thrust an obstacle in the path of President Coolidge. Perhaps that was "good politics." It lacked much, however, of being courtesy.

It is said that certain social strata feeling curbed in its activities by the existing criminal syndicalism law, are bending their energies to have the statute repealed.

If there could be a better reason for not repealing it, nobody has mentioned it yet.

The caution called for in relation to any disease that threatens to become prevalent, often creates an anxiety far from wholesome. Fear is a destructive agency. There are proper preventive steps, but the wise, in taking them, sedulously refrain from getting scared.

"Gin Starts Operation." Headline.

For the information of those who saw the caption and read no farther, it may be said that the gin in question is not synthetic, but has to do with the cotton crop of Kern county.

A woman obtained a divorce because her husband pretended suicide. He had sprawled his supposedly dead body where it was certain to be discovered by her. This episode had followed many threats of suicide.

The court readily granted the decree. It would be unfair to subject any wife to the chance of another disappointment.

Here is a case interesting enough to bear repeating once more: Mrs. Irene Mohn sued Catherine Tingley for alienation of the affections of Mr. Mohn. She got a verdict for $100,000; which, after a long court fight was paid, not to Mrs. Mohn, but to the court. Immediately Mohn sought to obtain the money. The wife also applied for it, but her writ of mandamus was denied.

The question of how much, if any, a husband is entitled to for permitting his affections to be alienated, possibly never came up before.

Were it put to a jury of red-blooded folk to decide he'd not get a cent, but would be lucky to escape with a whole skin.

The fires marking "Fire Prevention" week, and particularly the series that followed were most ominous. The continuous spectacle of conflagrations pointed to the possibility of deliberation.

Many hikers and campers are habitually careless, yet this human frailty hardly could account for the entire record of disaster. There is the chance also of spontaneous combustion. A piece of broken glass in dry grass might so concentrate their sun's rays as to start a blaze. Yet there have been so many of the disasters that the pleasing belief that no malice is involved is maintained with difficulty.

Over in Italy they have found a novel way of handling the type known as sheik. A recent offender against the proprietors, he having kissed a woman against her will, was made to swallow the content of a bottle of castor oil.

The cure is regarded as complete.

There is considerable quite unnecessary fuss being made over the fact that a relative of the Vanderbilts is driving a cab. Why the row? He may be a good driver.

It is strange that a gang of bandits after a series of spectacular murders, could utterly vanish from sight, a feat that seems to have been accomplished by the group that recently stopped a Southern Pacific train. Even the followers of Jesse James used to get potted occasionally.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

MY DEAR BOY

There's a little something I would say to you. A little something that you should hear. You're a boy.

There's nothing extraordinary to you in that, of course. You live with that fact every day and it doesn't get in your way any.

But there is something extraordinary about it. It isn't as plain to you as it is to me who once was it. It's great to be a boy.

It's such fun. Never again will the sky be so high and blue nor the air so cool and sweet to your skin. Never again will you be as blissfully empty and as puringly full three times a day. Never again will laughter come so easily and ripple from your throat so freely; never will people smile at you yearningly, gently, forgivingly, as they do today. Because you're a boy.

Just this once, for this one time, the world is new and full of delightful secrets. People are so interesting, so full of stories that widen your eyes and set your heart a thumping and your eager soul to soaring! Life is full of dreams and surprises and adventures. Never again will it offer such rainbows and fireflies and winged horses. Yours now, because you're a boy!

"Twill never again be so easy to be generous and free, a knight, a crusader, sweeping away the wrongs of the world and setting the rights in their places with flourish and trumpet and song. Youth is the time for adventure and the blue haze that hides it lies just beyond. Mount and away—for this once you may do it, for you are a boy!

The sun of life's morning dawns on your horizon. You stand on your toes, catch its first gleam and shout out in your glad. Ere it reaches the height of noon, you will be far on your way. But will you still be the boy of the morning? I wonder.

Of course, there's a secret. Those who know it still carry their boyhood toward sunset. It is no food for babes. Can you take it? It is no charm from your godmother's poke, no guerdon from your fond mother. It's an order from the stern mother of men, Mother Nature. Can you take it?

Take down your white tablet and write this upon it: "There are things no boy does!" Every day as you set out look at this well and ponder upon it. Live by it and the boy in you lives forever. Throw it aside and your boyhood goes with it.

It is not easy, but are you a coward? Then you're no boy and no matter! It is hard and cold and clean. Well, who are you? A kitten? Then you're no boy and no matter! It is a sword and a shield to the spirit and you are a BOY, and king. If not, it's no matter.

Gridiron

Glendale high's football aggregation will meet the South Pasadena pigskinners in the first game of the Central league tomorrow at South Pasadena. The lineup will contain some of the best material Glendale has had in several years. The many victories over nearby schools in the recent practice games makes the outlook very optimistic for grabbing the Central league pennant this year.

The game promises to be a fast one as the reports from South Pasadena announce several victories for her in their recent practice tilts.

The other schools in the league with strong teams this year are Covina and Monrovia. Glendale's old enemy, Franklin, was squelched to the tune of 15 to 2 recently in a practice game. With strong teams as Hollywood and Santa Barbara, who have all met defeat at the red and black's hands it is hoped that the South Pasadena squad will receive a sure and speedy defeat.

Glendale's lightweight team is playing South Pasadena today in the first league game of the season also.

EXTRA! WOMEN AT LAST FIND PLACE ON BOXING CARD

At last the women have come into their element. Not content with having gained the ballot, equal rights and a few other things formerly the privilege of men alone, the members of the weaker sex have invaded the squared ring, not as spectators, but actual participants in the fisty events.

Mrs. "Kid" Martin, former wife of "Kid" Martin, heavyweight champion of Seattle, and Mrs. Olan Shannon of the same city will meet in the Glendale Athletic club bouts next Tuesday evening. They are both real scrappers, weighing 135 pounds each.

Mrs. Martin is declared to have a real punch and to be fast on her feet. She challenges any woman of 135 pounds to meet her in the ring. No hair pulling will be permitted, for the participants will wear the regulation gloves.

BOXING WILL BE CONTINUED AT U. OF S. C.

No Inter-collegiate Bouts,
But Fistic Lessons
Continue

Boxing of the inter-collegiate variety will not be on the boards for U. S. C. this year. The Athletic Committee reached the decision only a week or so ago to cease matching Trojan battlers with other Coast College Dempseys.

But boxing, however, has not been frowned upon. It will henceforth be a local sport solely and confined to classes and inter-class contests.

According to Professor B. E. Nichols, successor to Professor Lee of the Physical Education Department, inter-collegiate boxing was abolished not on account of the boxers themselves, but on account of the spectators acting like roughnecks at these bouts, that their bloodthirsty yells, jeers, curses and loud shouting detracted from the sportsmanship and good-will that boxing itself encourages, was the gist of the instructor's message.

Professor Nichols tells how popular inter-collegiate boxing is back east. There they have their regular rooting sections but during the bout itself, no yells or shouts are allowed.

When a new spirit is found and inter-collegiate boxing is put on a new level, that of skill, sportsmanship and a general scientific basis, then in all probability U. S. C. will resume this sport with other schools, was the final statement of Mr. Nichols.

In 1:54 and finishing the mile and a quarter in 2:09.

Papyrus, with Donoghue up, had an easy gallop of six furlongs, but is slated for a final test preparatory to tomorrow morning, probably at a mile and a half, the distance of the international race.

Donoghue, sitting erect and holding a long rein in contrast to the customary American style of riding, got his first survey of Belmont track, on which he will match his riding skill with Earle Sande, leading American jockey, in the big race. The little English jockey seemed pleased with the condition of Papyrus, which he piloted to his fifth derby triumph at Epsom Downs.

SPORT-O-GRAMS

By FRANCIS WILKERSON READ

"While many people considered California's showing in the Olympic club game last Saturday far below standard, especially as to the size of the score, it is generally agreed, nevertheless, that California made a creditable showing and exhibited true strength."

So says Don Nichols, captain of the University of California football team, in speaking of last Saturday's game. He is of the opinion that those who insist on hanging their heads for the Bruin eleven made a huge mistake, for the Golden Bear, he says, is alive and kicking as hard as ever.

He points out that the Olympic Club is as strong as any squad the Blue and Gold will have to meet this year, stronger, in fact, than many of them. The Club boys played together for several years, and have every confidence in themselves and each other. The California squad is composed for the most part of the second varsity of last year with a few of the last year's fresh team at various berths.

Naturally, they are not working as smoothly now as they will a little later in the season.

Coach Andy Smith has two complete backfields, either of which would be considered an asset by any coach in the country. He can interchange the men of the two machines without causing an upset of the general harmony. This was proved Saturday when Bill Bluet, the sophomore fullback substituted for Jimmy Dixon at halfback.

Nichols pointed out that the Olympic game gave the players the roughest possible type of opposition and hinted at the fact that the Club men used undue roughness in the game. He said, "It is felt by many followers of the California varsity that should the contests between the Olympic Club and California continue to resemble a prize fight it would probably be best for California to omit the Club men from its yearly schedule. In previous years this spirit of unnecessary roughness has not appeared either among Californians nor her opposing players and it only cheapens the contest and hurts the sportsmanship of the great game of football."

"Students and public alike," he remarked, "must not expect large scores, for they are things of the past." He states that Andy will try to win his games, but that is all. He will not go out to pile up huge scores against the opposing team.

This Saturday the Bears will take on the Oregon Aggies at California field. Nichols says that Cal should win the game, but that Andy is taking no chances. The Blue and Gold footballers will take a little rest prior to their first conference game.

As to the situation at quarter, Nichols says never a word. Telegraphic reports of Saturday's game stated that the reason Cal did not register a more decisive victory over the Olympic Club was that Imlay proved to be a flivver as a quarterback. He is charged with conducting a halting type of game, whereas it is pointed out that the Bear offense should have been steady and unwavering.

It must be remembered that the type of game played necessarily is regulated by the style of the opposing team. Playing against the Bruins to advance in the manner they usually do. Maybe the charge that the Olympics were unduly rough, if sustained, would account for the fact that the Cal attack was not what some of the critics thought it should have been. Any way we believe that Imlay has all the stuff necessary for an excellent signal barker, and we're going to keep our eyes on him.

NEW RACE TRACK AT CULVER CITY TO OPEN DEC. 25

With the grading of the 140 acres of ground at Culver City almost done, bids are being received by Dick Ferris for the building of a grandstand and clubhouse for the Culver City racetrack.

T. Park Jacobs arrived in Los Angeles today to confer with Ferris in regard to becoming interested in the racing project.

Ferris expects to have the track opened by Dec. 25.

SAGEHEN FROSH • MEET ENGINEER BABES SATURDAY

The Pomona College frosh football team, which played a 7 to 7 tie with Santa Ana High School last week, meets the California Tech at Pasadena Saturday in a curtain-raiser to the main Pomona-Caltech game. The Sagehen babes have been coming along under the direction of Coaches Hod Chambers and B. Dyer Burger, guard, former Jefferson High player, looks good, as does Capt. Naher, who holds down the fullback berth. Hezmahach, a tackle, and McCormick, quarter, are also playing good ball. The games will be called at 1 o'clock.

MIDGET GRIDDERS TO BATTLE SOUTH PASADENA TODAY

Glendale Lightweights
Open C. L. Season on Local Field

After more than a month of training the Glendale High school footballers are at last ready to step into the Central League race. This afternoon on the local gridiron the Red and Black Lightweights will clash with the South Pasadena midgets in the first game of the 130-pound section of the League.

From all indications the Glendale Lightweights will put up a first-class scrap. With only a few men from last year's championship squad back, Coach Paul Butterfield has built up a real football team. He used the veterans as a nucleus, filling in with green men. The result is a team of surprisingly high caliber, good in every department of the game.

Whether the baby Dynamites can lick the young Tigers remains to be seen. South Pasadena is said to have a strong lightweight squad this year, and will undoubtedly give the locals a battle.

Coach Butterfield of the lightweights announces the following lineup for today's encounter:

Stullwell and Roberts, ends; Reed and Sturges, tackles; Jonkey and Green, guards; Muff, center; LaFrenchi, quarter; McAllister and Porter, Thompson, halves; Lovell, full.

FRANCE PROUD OF TENNIS ADVANCE IN RECENT YEARS

[By Associated Press]
PARIS, Oct. 18.—There were 18,720 players entered and 14,123 actually took part in the popular tennis tournaments organized through-out France by the French Tennis Federation during the season just closed. Several promising youngsters were uncovered who, with a few years more practice, may develop into Davis cup timber.

The French are very proud of the development of tennis in France of recent years. It is pointed out that for the Davis cup matches, in 1921, 1922 and 1923, they have put on the courts an entirely different team each year.

It is a common saying in France that if the Davis cup matches were played six men to a side, French tennis would have a chance.

BOWLING CARLOCK BOWLERS DEFEAT GATEWAYS IN LEAGUE MATCH

Grabbing the odd game by 869-760, the L. B. Carlock bowling team took last night's match from the Gateway bowlers, 2 games to 1. The match was played in the Glendale Recreation Center Alleys and was a scheduled meet of the Foothill Bowling League. The scores:

OXY CO-EDS TO SELL PEANUTS AND HOT DOGS

Another profession has been taken over by the shriller sex! An attraction in addition to the Stanford-Occidental football fracas at the Coliseum next Saturday will be three or four dozen choice co-eds from the Eagle Rock institution who will filter through the crowds selling peanuts, popcorn, ice cream, candy and kindred products to the hungry, the purpose being to swell the fund for an Occidental women's dormitory. As peanut butchers the Oxy girls intend to put the male members of the profession to shame, and with considerable confidence in their ability to keep the stunt across have ordered enough hot dogs and ice cream to keep an army in rations for a month.

The co-eds will be dressed in gypsy costumes as they pry nickels and dimes from the rosters, the idea being that they are literal homeless roamers until they get their much-desired dorm. Few, however, rabid, will be foolish enough to watch a mere football game with such an exhibition of feminine charm as a counter attraction.

One thing at least is certain. Whatever Henderson has been holding back from the public he will have to disclose on Saturday. He will have to let his men out to their full capacity, to open up wide, in order to beat the Northerners. It is an undeniable fact that the Trojans have not shown in their Pomona, Caltech or Nevada games all the stuff that they possess. Saturday they will have to let loose of the whole bag of tricks and the public will be a great deal the wiser as to the real strength of the U. S. C. eleven. Andy Smith will also gain some useful information, for it can be relied upon that the Bruin coach will have able scouts on the job to watch the work of the Trojan warriors.

After Saturday's encounter the men will be given a slight rest and then will start conditioning for the Stanford fight a week later. The Cards are a tough aggregation and will give the Trojans more trouble than any other team except the California Bears.

No straight and narrow path is wide enough for crooked people.

TROJANS PREPARE FOR BATTLE WITH WASHINGTON

U. S. C. Eleven Puts on Last Touches for Huskie's Game

Elmer E. Henderson and his fighting bunch of U. S. C. footballers are now in Seattle, training for the battle with the University of Washington gridgers on Saturday. Gloomy Gus is taking no chances on his boys forgetting their stuff and is giving them some stiff workouts in the northern city, all of course, behind barred gates.

The Trojans are favored to cop Saturday's tilt in spite of the fact that the Huskies are rated as an exceptionally strong aggregation. It is felt that the Trojans are so strong that it will take a mountain to stop them. Whether the husleg will present U. S. C. with a mountain is unknown as yet.

All of Henderson's players are in first-class condition for the struggle except Otto Anderson, who has a bad ankle. Newman, the Indian Chief of the Trojan squad, is said to have recently become quite adept at the art of passing. The back field has shown a decided improvement of late, and will demonstrate some real playing.

One thing at least is certain. Whatever Henderson has been holding back from the public he will have to disclose on Saturday. He will have to let his men out to their full capacity, to open up wide, in order to beat the Northerners. It is an undeniable fact that the Trojans have not shown in their Pomona, Caltech or Nevada games all the stuff that they possess. HONOR FACULTY AT GRAND VIEW SCHOOL

Charming Program Given to Entertain Large Crowd Present

A wonderfully enthusiastic reception was given at the Grand View school Tuesday night for members of the faculty under the auspices of the Parent Teacher association, about 150 being present.

Mrs. Guy W. Finney, president of the association, urged members to get better acquainted with the teachers and to co-operate with them in all possible ways. Mr. Finney made a short talk in which he declared that the growth of a citizen is measured by his service to the community of which the schools are such an important part and he urged a larger participation by the fathers. Later in the program G. H. Keloenger representing the Broadway School, told of the work that is being done there by the Fathers' Auxiliary to the P. T. A. and Mr. Finney was commissioned to call a meeting next week to organize such an auxiliary for Grand View.

The response on behalf of the teachers was made by Miss Vera Sinclair, principal, who told of the ways in which the school endeavors to fit pupils for life and good citizenship by installing principles of courtesy, fair play, cheerfulness, cleanliness of person, thought and speech, dependability and self-control, altruism in working for others and the good of the school, obedience, a willingness to follow direction and respect authority.

The little Steelman sisters gave a charming butterfly dance; Mrs. Bessie Morgan two beautiful solos for which Mrs. Alexander Mitchell played the accompaniment; Mrs. Eustace B. Moore, president of the P. T. A. Federation, made a talk in which she said that the home and the P. T. A. go hand in hand; a whistling solo was contributed by Mary Ellen Pittenger, and a violin solo by her sister Corinne Pittenger; the two giving a duet. Mrs. Nanno Woods gave a talk on the aesthetic development of the child and her talented daughters, Dorothy and Kathleen, contributed impersonations and a Mexican dance, respectively. Mrs. Walter G. Fischer, president of the Burbank Women's Club, was a guest and made a little speech in which she declared there should be no dividing lines in the fellowship of Burbank and Glendale. Mrs. Roy Russell of Burbank, formerly with George Arliss, gave much enjoyed readings.

The very small boy, with a penny clutched in his hot and sticky hand, entered the toy shop and standing on tiptoe, inspected the goods displayed therein. After a long look he did not see anything to satisfy and asked to see some other things.

Nothing seemed to please him, however, and at last the shopkeeper lost his patience and said, rather sharply:

"Look here, my lad, do you want to buy the whole world with your penny?"

Mrs. Johnstone, wife of a former judge, was the first witness called in the investigation that has disclosed that mercury was found in Mrs. Webb's body. A legal battle is now on over her $2,000,000 estate.

DREAD ALPS COLLECT HEAVY DEATH TOLL

GENEVA, Oct. 18. — The Alps take a steady toll of human life. Every summer mountain climbers come to Switzerland to scale its peaks, and every summer sees a number of tragic fatalities. Many bodies never are recovered, for the devoted mountain climber often goes out alone to find his last resting place deep in an ice crevasse or at the remote base of a precipice. Accidents have been unusually numerous this year.

Recently when a Swiss bank clerk named Goetsch, noted as a good climber, failed to return, searchers saw his body at the foot of a cliff. A rescue party, led by a priest with 450 feet of rope, finally made the descent after 12 hours of dangerous work. They found beside the body a note saying: "Kindly bury me here."

The little funeral party rolled boulders and blocks of ice so as to form a mound over the man, they placed an ice-axe at his head as a cross, and the priest read the burial service.

FORMER RESIDENT NAMES DICKSON EMBEZZLER

Dr. Kate S. Black in Complaint Against Pomona Automobile Man

A complaint filed by Dr. Kate Shephardson Black of Eagle Rock who lived for many years on Kenneth Road, building two fine homes on that beautiful street and later selling them, charging William T. Dickson, promoter of a giant automobile factory in Pomona, with embezzlement of $9750, resulted in the arrest yesterday of Mr. Dickson. An additional charge against Dickson, accusing him of cashing a $1000 check in Los Angeles at the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank with insufficient funds, was placed against him at the same time.

According to the officers' reports, Dr. Black had given Dickson the deed to property valued at $9750, telling him to dispose of it and place the proceeds in the company's stock. The officers are said to have reported that Dickson was selling blocks of "stock" to Pomona citizens, under the promise to erect a huge automobile factory there. They are alleged to have claimed that the only funds in Dickson's possession were the amounts collected for the stock. William T. Dickson, former San Francisco broker, when lodged in the county jail, is said to have admitted cashing the check and disposing of the property of Dr. Black as he had been instructed to do. His case was investigated by Assistant Detective Captain Thomas O'Brien, Detective Lieutenants Trainor and Hawtrey, and Bank Detective Dalton.

A lawyer gazing idly out of his window saw a sight in an office across the street that made him rub his eyes and look again. Yes, there is no doubt about it. The pretty stenographer was sitting upon the man's lap.

The lawyer noticed the name on the window, and then searched in the telephone book. Still keeping his eyes upon the scene across the street, he called the man up. In a few moments he saw him start violently and take down the receiver.

"Yes," said the lawyer, through the telephone, "I should think you would start."

The victim whisked his arm from its former position and began to stammer something.

"Yes," continued the lawyer, severely, "I think you'd better take that arm away. And as there are plenty of chairs in the room—" The victim brushed the lady from his lap.

"Who—who the deuce is this, anyhow?" he managed to splutter, "I," answered the lawyer, in deep, impressive tones, "am your conscience."

SEVEN YEAR TASK FACES PHILIPPINE VACCINATORS

[By Associated Press] MANILA, Oct. 18. — With ten vaccinating parties now working under the direction of the Philippine health service, it is estimated that the systematic vaccination of the people of all the islands will be completed within seven years. The ten parties now are working in the provinces of Oriental Negros, Batangas, Iloilo Sur, Batjan, Samar, Olbay, Zamboanga, Surigao, Capiz and Zambales. The average daily vaccination of each party is about 395.

In the city of Manila there is a group of 14 vaccinators, seven of whom are vaccinating children from one month to one year of age, while the others are making house to house revaccination campaigns of the residents.

The salaries and expenses for all the vaccinating parties amount to $66,200 annually. Of 419,510 vaccinations made up to July 31, 153,503 were positives.

REGULATIONS FOR NARCOTICS SALE TO BE ENFORCED

Stringent orders which revoke former regulations governing the prescribing of narcotics by physicians and outlining new Rules for the treatment of drug addiction under the Harrison Narcotic Law, have been received from Washington by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell, and physicians and druggists will be notified immediately that the regulations will be vigorously enforced.

The rules provide that a prescription for narcotics in order to be legal must be issued for legitimate medicinal purposes. A prescription given to an addict who is not under professional treatment for the purpose of providing the user with narcotics to make him comfortable, not only makes the physician liable to arrest but the druggist who filled the order and the addict as well.

Exceptions to this rule are allowed in the treatment of cancer and other incurable diseases where a physician is directly in charge and in cases where the attending physician prescribes for an aged and infirm drug addict whose collapse from withholding the drug might result in death.

Responsibility for prescriptions is placed upon the druggist as well as the physician. Druggists who knowingly fill a prescription whereby an addict is supplied drugs for the mere purpose of satisfying his addiction will be prosecuted. Responsibility is placed with the physician as to the furnishing of drugs or the frequency of the prescription in any particular case.

Physicians will be prosecuted if through carelessness a patient secures more narcotics than are necessary for medical treatment and devotes part of his supply to satisfy addiction or disposes of his surplus of drugs.

Mere addiction is not recognized as an incurable disease. Addicts are divided into two classes by the Revenue Bureau, aged and infirm addicts, and the ordinary addict.

The regulations state that the Bureau has never sanctioned or approved the so-called ambulatory treatment of addiction for the reason that where the addict controls the dosage he will never be benefited or cured. Medical authorities agree that the treatment of addiction, with a view of effecting a cure, which makes no provision for confinement while the drug is being withdrawn, is a failure, except in a relatively small number of cases where the addict is possessed of more than ordinary will power. For this reason the regulations provide that in all cases where narcotics are prescribed the patient must be personally attended by a registered physician who regulates the dosage.

Sales of paragon in quantities greater than necessary for legitimate medical uses, are held to be violations of the Harrison Act and will result in prosecutions.

SUPPLY RULES FOR WEDDED BLISS WITH LICENSE

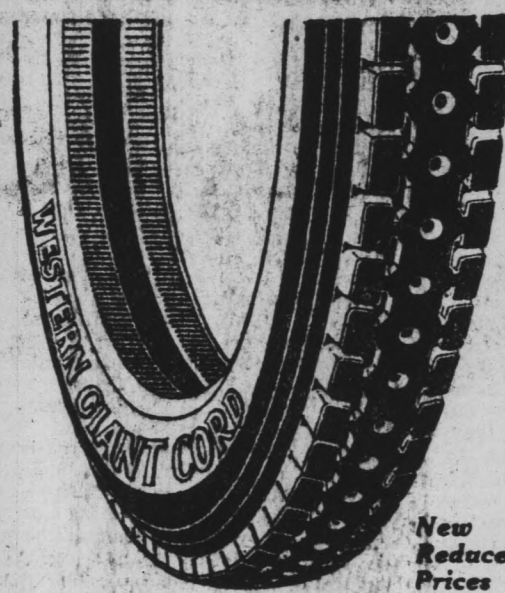

[By Associated Press] CENTERVILLE, Mich., Oct. 18. — County Clerk John Niendorf of St. Joseph county believes that a county clerk's responsibility does not end with the issuance of marriage licenses. He has had printed, a supply of cards containing his rules for a successful marriage, and each couple is given one.

One side of the card carries the county clerk's blessing: "May all your days be as happy as your wedding day."

On the reverse side appear ten "rules" to insure happy marriages. They include:

"Keep up the courtship. Go 50-50 on the money and 50-50 on the love. Make your own home and don't live with relatives. Beware the boarder, and don't be a tight wad."

"They're all good rules," Niendorf said. "I have tried them in my own home, and I know."

WOMEN'S DAY AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Tuesday was women's day at the new Glendale Presbyterian church on Harvard and Louise, members of the women's societies assembling at 10:30 a. m. for a session of the Missionary society, over which Mrs. George McDill presided. At that session a $5 gift was made to the fund for the families of the men who lost their lives in the mountain fire last Saturday. An appropriation of $15 was made for the Forodot Memorial at the school for Spanish girls in Los Angeles. Announcement was made of the books in the course of the study of missionary work which would be taken up by the different groups. Mrs. D. F. Rae made a report of the secondary ministry in the work of the church. The theme of the day was "Alaska and India." Those who took part in the program were Mesdames M. P. Harrison, W. E. Edmonds, G. C. Lemon, W. Bail, L. A. Hart, John Horsch, C. Stuart, J. A. Newton, David Black and O. O. Danielson. A beautiful vocal solo was contributed by Mrs. A. M. Draper.

Picnic lunches which the ladies had brought were combined and eaten together and coffee was served. After the luncheon there was a business meeting over which Mrs. J. A. Newton presided, and the balance of the afternoon was devoted to sewing on comforters and quilts.

Big Parties at High School This Week

Next Friday night in the boys' gym of the Glendale High school the big official party for teachers in the high and grade schools of Glendale will be given by the Federation of Parent-Teacher associations. All patrons of the schools are invited to come and get acquainted with the men and women with whom their children spend most of the hours of daylight.

A brief program will be provided which will begin with a little speech of welcome and appreciation by Mrs. E. B. Moore, president of the federation, to which Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan, president of the City Teachers' club, and Normal Hayhurst, president of the High School Teachers' club will respond. Mayor Spencer Robinson has agreed to come and sing, there will be two groups of songs by the boys' glee club of Glendale High, violin numbers by little Corinne Pittinger of the Glendale Avenue school, and whistling solos by her sister.

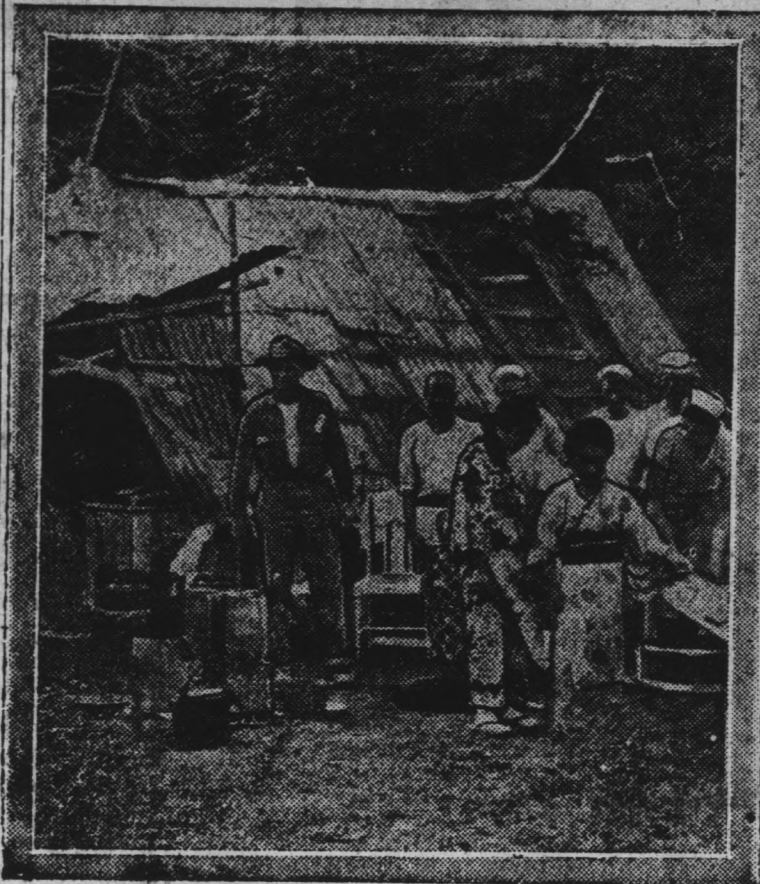

Tables will be provided for the various schools at which punch and home-made cake will be dispensed and where parents can meet and greet the teachers of the schools in which they are most interested.

In the adjoining gymnasium senior and junior girls of Glendale High will be putting on a stunt party for which many of the High school P. T. A. mothers have received tickets.

BOSTON SERVICES REACH OUT FOR THE UNCHURCHED

(By Associated Press)

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Preachers of many denominations from all parts of the country and from Canada and England will participate in a series of daily services in historic King's Chapel now under way and to continue until next May for the purpose of drawing non-churchgoers into some church, regardless of denomination. College presidents and prominent writers also will be among the speakers. On one day of each week the service will be entirely musical.

The first King's Chapel was erected in 1686 and the present structure was built in 1749. It was the first Episcopal church in Boston and here the British officers worshipped while the city was besieged by the Continental army in the Revolution. In 1785 it became the first Unitarian church in the United States and has since been affiliated with that denomination.

The present pastor is Rev. Harold E. B. Speight.

The Preaching Mission, as it is to be known, was opened by the ringing for the first time in years of the Paul Revera bell in the church tower and the playing of several chorales by eight trombonists from the Boston Symphony orchestra stationed in the balcony outside the tower. The first preachers were Dr. Alexander MacColl, minister of the Second Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, and Rev. Vivian T. Pomeroy, Congregationalist, of Bradford, England.

To remove a hot cake or pudding from a tin or mold you should turn upside down and cover with a cloth wrung out of cold water. The contents will slip out in a minute or two. To remove anything cold or frozen reverse the process and wring the cloth out of hot water.

OLDEST PYTHIAN IN STATE GIVEN HIS DEGREES

"Bob" Taylor, Aged G. A.
R. Man, Boy Scout
Leader, Honored

In recognition of the work he has done for the Boy Scouts, "Bob" Taylor was honored by the Glendale lodge of Knights of Pythias by being initiated into the order at the regular meeting held Tuesday night, with Chancellor Commander E. C. Meltzer in the chair. Robert N. Taylor is an active member of the G. A. R. of Glendale and organized the first Boy Scout troop in Glendale, which is now being sponsored by the Knights of Pythias. Mr. Taylor has the distinction of being the oldest candidate who has been put through the Knights of Pythias in the state of California, having passed his 78th birthday. He made a fine talk after the meeting when presented with a lodge button. Mr. Fisher was also initiated at Tuesday night's meeting.

There were visitors present from seven different states, and also a number from Hollywood and Pasadena. At the close of the evening a delicious banquet was served by Mr. and Mrs. Emil Rehberg.

The Knights of Pythias lodge decided to donate $10 toward the relief fund for the families of the two fire victims.

According to F. J. Willett of the Glendale lodge, over 1000 candidates from Los Angeles county will be initiated at the big ceremonial to be held at Santa Monica on October 29.

About fifty members of the local lodge are planning to attend the meeting in Los Angeles on Saturday night of the Dramatic Order of Knights of Khorassan, a branch of the Pythias lodge.

D'ANNUNZIO TO PUBLISH HIS AUTOBIOGRAPHY

[By Associated Press]

ROME, Oct. 18.—Gabriel d'Annunzio, poet, statesman and soldier, has leased from the Italian government the Villa Falconieri, and will relinquish his present residence on Lake Garda. He promises to publish shortly two or three books, one of which, "About Me and Myself," is said to be autobiographical, audacious and outspoken, even for these unrefined days. Another is called "The Adventurer Without Adventures" and yet another, "The Archangel of Asia," gives d'Annunzio's impressions of the East.

The Villa Falconieri is one of the oldest and most romantic of the lovely 17th century villas which were laid out with so much taste and charm by the luxury-loving princes of the Church as their summer residences near Rome. It was acquired twelve years ago by the then emperor of Germany, who had it fitted up as a resting place for German artists, literary men and officers wishing to winter in Rome. During the war it was confiscated by the Italian authorities.

Like all these country houses of the Renaissance, the grounds of the Villa Falconieri are full of stately, beautiful trees, and formal, exquisite fountains and waterfalls. There is also a romantic lake, surrounded by cypresses, which is said to be haunted by the wraith of a water-nymph, or perhaps by that of a young girl of more modern days whose body, like that of another Ophelia, was found floating there, crowned and covered with flowers.

Southwest Museum's Program for Oct. 20-21

The story of the morning for the Children's "At Home" at the Southwest Museum, Saturday, October 20th, at 10:30 A.M., will be one of the Crow Indians of Montana, written by Edward S. Curtis, the well known Indian artist and writer, entitled "The Legend of Home Boy." The story is arranged and told by Barbara Dacier in such a way as to bring in the Museum exhibits in the Indian Hall.

Music and games and a film "Science in the Home" which tells the story of the lucifer match, recorded by Prof. F. Percy, Smith, London.

Rae Nuanne Victor, former instructor in Oratory, Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, also well known in local circles, will speak next Sunday afternoon, October 21st, at 3:00 o'clock. Her subject will be "The North American Indian and Hiawatha." This lecture-recital embraces the origin, religion, superstitions, domestic and tribal relations, particularly of the six nations which make up the Iroquois Confederation. The lecture is illustrated with slides made during a three year association with a company of 200 members of these six nations, who were engaged in a portrayal of Longfellow's Indian Epic, a beautiful all fresco production.

Special exhibit now being shown by the extension department is the First Annual Exhibition of Modern American Handicrafts and is a thoroughly representative exhibit of the best workers in the field.

EPIDEMIC JAUNDICE

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

There would seem to be no doubt that epidemic jaundice is rapidly becoming more in evidence on the North American continent.

According to Dr. George Blumer, few outbreaks of it occurred in the United States up to 1885, and these almost exclusively in the south. Since 1885 there has been a progressive increase in occurrence, the disease extending north beyond the American border to appear in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Since 1920, again, the outbreaks have been less limited in spread than formerly. The state-wide epidemic in New York during the winter of 1921-1922 suggests unpleasant possibilities of still wider extension in the future.

Certainly, too, it emphasizes the importance of playing special heed to the laws of hygienic living during the fall and winter months. Statistics indicate that epidemic jaundice is as seasonal a malady as pneumonia commonly is.

And while its causative agent is yet in doubt, the suspicion obtains that it is a germ or virus contracted much as the pneumonia germ. Fortunately epidemic jaundice is not nearly so deadly as pneumonia. In the New York epidemic, the most extensive yet reported, there occurred only five known fatal cases.

Still it is a most unpleasant malady, as may be judged from this medical description of its manner of attack in New York:

"In typical cases there was a slight initial fever, with several days of anorexia, nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, constipation, clay-colored stools and bile-stained urine. After this period, which lasted usually from three days to a week, jaundice appeared and the abdominal symptoms decreased markedly in severity.

"The jaundice persisted for varying periods from several days to several weeks. Convalescence was almost invariably slow, and was marked by prostration very frequently of a severe type."

Children and adolescents would seem to be far more liable than adults to be attacked by epidemic jaundice. In 70 per cent of fifty outbreaks statistically studied, children and adolescents only were involved. On the other hand, in 8 per cent of these epidemics the occurrence was entirely among adults.

There is no sex difference in liability to attack, but it is noted that fatalities among adults are almost wholly confined to expectant mothers. Even in their case the fatality-rate is low. Of the temporary disabling effect in all cases there can be no question.

And, as state, the fall and winter months are the months in which epidemic jaundice is most active. Because its origin is unknown no specific measure to prevent it can be recommended. Reliance must be placed on the familiar general measures for keeping up one's resistive powers—a proper diet, regular exercise, ample rest, etc.

When, however, it appears in a community there is need for supplementing these measures by extra care in cleanliness, avoidance of crowds as much as possible, and in particular avoidance of contact with persons known to be affected.

As yet epidemic jaundice is a reportable disease in only three or four states. If only on account of the suffering it often causes it should everywhere be made reportable and subject to rigid quarantine.

A lady told a jurist that she considered legal forms entirely too abrupt, not to say harsh, asking him if this was necessary. He said he supposed not, that it was merely a survival of ancient custom, and wanted to know if she had anything to suggest.

Whereupon she took a pencil and blocked out the following:

Mrs. De Style, the well-known society leader, has consented to be tried tomorrow for shooting at her husband. As a prospective witness you are cordially subpoenaed to be present.

FOR many years now, Goodyear Tire prices have been kept consistently lower than the average price level for all commodities, as you see from the above chart. At the same time, Goodyear quality has been consistently bettered. Today, Goodyear Tire prices are lower than in 1914, and Goodyear quality is the highest ever. This is a good time to buy Goodyears.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service.

14 FOR SALE HOUSES

SEEING IS BELIEVING

In every sense of the word a gentleman's home, right in the heart of Glendale; two blocks from Brand and 3 from Broadway. A beautiful 5-room bungalow on lot 50x150, with 20-ft. alley in rear.

Broad cement walk running straight through from street to alley, sprinkler system for lawns, both front and rear; cement porch around entire front and side; wisteria, climbing roses, Bougainvillea, 4 varieties of grapes, practically every known kind of rose bush, loganberries sufficient for large family, oranges, lemons, apricots, peaches, plums, nectarines; garage opening on both driveway and alley, so that you can drive in one way and out the other; cement walks throughout garden.

INSIDE—Large living room
across entire front; dining room with French doors opening on side porch; well arranged kitchen;
breakfast room with built-in buffet,
large enough to seat eight people comfortably. Bath room accessible to every room in house through hallway; 2 large bed rooms upstairs, and 2 down stairs; more closets and built-in conveniences than we have ever seen in any 5-room house. This house has been built about 5 years and would be a remarkably good buy if priced $4000 more than the asking price, which is $10,900.

Reasonable cash payment and first mortgage at 7 per cent. are the terms to responsible people.

A GOOD INVESTMENT

A Good House, only a block from East Broadway, on a lot 50x150 with 20 ft. alley. A large cheerful dining room with specially built bookcases to accommodate a real library, fireplace, etc. Bedrooms are large and much better ventilated than usual. Both dining room and kitchen are convenient and modern. The specially desirable features about this property are the arrangement of the rooms, the convenient and desirable location, and the depth of the lot which makes it especially desirable either for a home or two income properties. Then, too, the Price is Right—only $6550. Easy terms.

Ball to Start 1923 Series

Caring your Golf Troubles
By J. Barnes

Dear Mr. Barnes: I have been reading your answers to questions about golf with a great deal of interest for some time, and would like to ask one or two myself, although they don't concern how to play strokes. I want some information about what is a stroke and what is not. That is, how far does a player have to carry the club forward before the motion must be counted as a stroke? Is there any fixed limit, and if not, how is the question decided?

Answer: There are two fundamental considerations on which a movement of a club is considered a stroke. One is any forward movement of the club head that brings it in contact with the ball and causes the ball to move, or any forward movement of the club with the intention to hit the ball, even though it does not strike the ball. In the former case, accidentally causing the ball to move on the tee, before it is in play, is excepted.

The matter of intention to hit the ball may sometimes be hard to determine. But it has been officially ruled that if a player starts the club down on the downs and for any reason change his intention to hit the ball before the club head reaches it, the intention to hit the ball is removed, and the movement is not a stroke. On the other hand, it has been decided that in such a case as the club head's flying off the shaft as the player swings through, the player is charged with a stroke, even though he does not touch the ball, because the intent to hit was there all right.

Also if a player hits at a ball and his club catches or strikes something the turns it aside, the movement counts a stroke, even though he doesn't actually hit the ball.

TRILBY

This famous novel is given in serial form to readers of this newspaper through arrangement with Richard Wallace Kelly, producer of the screen version, and First National Pictures, the distributor of the motion picture.

Looking in a paper, they saw it announced that the band of the Imperial Guides would play that afternoon in the Pre Catalan, Bois de Boulogne, and thought they might as well walk there as anywhere else, and walk back again in time to dine with the Passells—a prandial function which did not promise to be very amusing; but still it was something to kill the evening with, since they couldn't go and hear Trilby again.

Outside the Pre Catalan they found a crowd of cabs and carriages, saddle horses and grooms. One might have thought one's self in the height of the Paris season. They went in, and strolled about here and there, and listened to the band, which was famous (it has performed in London at the Crystal Palace), and they looked about and studied life, or tried to.

Suddenly they saw, sitting with three ladies (one of whom, the eldest, was in black), a very smart young officer, a guide, all red and green and gold, and recognized their old friend Zouzou. They bowed, and he knew them at once, and jumped up and came to them and greeted them warmly, especially his old friend Taffy, whom he took to his mother—the lady in black—and introduced to the other ladies, the younger of whom, strangely unlike the rest of her countrywomen, was so lamentably, so pathetically plain that it would be brutal to attempt the cheap and easy task of describing her. It was Miss Lavinia Hunkles, the famous American millionairess, and her mother. Then the good Zouzou came back and talked to the Laird and Little Billee.

Zouzou, in some subtle and indescribable way, had become very dual indeed. They talked of Dodo. He said how attached he was to Dodo, and always should be; but Dodo, it seemed, had made a great mistake in leaving the army and going into a retail business (Pelit commerce). He had done for himself—degraded! He should have stuck to the dragons—with a little patience and good conduct he would have "wob his epaulet"—and then one might have arranged for him a good little marriage—un parti convenable—for he was "tres joli garçon, Dodo! bonne tournure—et tres gentiment né! C'est tres ancien, les Rigolot—dans le Poitou, je crois—Lafare, et tout ça; tout a fait bien!"

He did not present Little Billee and the Laird to his mother, nor to Mrs. and Miss Hunkles; that honor was reserved for "the Man of Blood" alone; nor did he ask where they were staying, nor invite them to call on him. But in parting he expressed the immense pleasure it had given him to meet them again, and the hope he had of some day shaking their hands in London.

As the friends walked back to Paris together, it transpired that "the Man of Blood" had been invited by Madame Duchesse Mere (Maman Duchesse, as Zouzou called her) to dine with her next day, and meet the Hunkles at a furnished apartment she had taken in the Place Vendôme; for they had let (to the Hunkles) the Hotel de la Rochemartel in the Rue de Lille; they had also been obliged to let their place in the country, le chateau de Boleseur (to Monsieur Despoires, or "des Poires," as he chose to spell himself on his visiting cards—the famous soap manufacturer—"Un tres brave homme, ça se qu'on dit!" and whose only son by the way, soon after married Mademoiselle Jeanne Adelaide d'Amaru-Brissac de Roncesvalles de Boleseur de la Rochemartel).

When they reached the Place de la Concorde it was that lovely hour of a fine autumn day in beautiful bright cities, when all the lamps are lit in the shops and streets and under the trees, and it is still daylight—a quickly fleeting joy; and as a special treat on this particular occasion the sun set, and up rose the yellow moon over eastern Paris, and floated above the chimneys of the Tuilleries.

They stopped to gaze at the homeward procession of cabs and carriages, as they used to do in the old times. Tout Paris was still passing; tout Paris is very long. They stood among a little crowd of sight-seers like themselves, Little Billee right in front—in the road.

Presently a magnificent open carriage came by—more magnificent than even the Hunkles', with liveries and harness quite vulgarly resplendent—almost Napoleonic. Lolling back in it lay Monsieur et Madame Svengali—he with his broad-brimmed felt sombrero over his long black curls, wrapped in costly furs, smoking his big cigar of the Havana.

By his side lay Svengali—also in black—with a large black velvet hat on, her light brown hair done up in a huge knot on the nape of her neck. She was rouged and pearl-powdered, and her eyes were blackened beneath, and thus made to look twice their size; but in spite of all such disfigurements she was a most splendid vision, and caused quite a little sensation in the crowd as she came slowly by.

Little Billee's heart was in his mouth. He caught Svengali's eye, and saw him speak to her. She turned her head and looked at him standing there—they both did. Little Billee bowed. She stared at him with a cold stare of disdain, and cut him dead—so did Svengali. And as they passed he heard them both aniger—she with a little high pitched, flippant snigger worthy of a London bairmaid.

Little Billee was utterly crushed, and everything seemed turning round. The Laird and Taffy had seen it all without losing a detail. The Svengalis had not even looked their way. The Laird said:

"It's not Trilby—I swear! She could never have done that—it's not in her! and it's another face altogether—I'm sure of it!"

Taffy was also staggered and in doubt. They caught hold of Little Billee, each by an arm, and walked him off to the boulevards. He was quite demoralized, and wanted not to dine at the Passells'. He wanted to go straight home at once. He longed for his mother as he used to long for her when he was in trouble as a small boy and she was away from home—longed for her desperately—to hug her and hold her and fondle her, and be fondled, for his own sake and hers; all his old love for her had come back in full—with what arrears! All his old love for his sister, for his old home.

When they went back to the hotel to dress (for Dodo had begged them to put on their best evening wear-paint, so as to impress his future mother-in-law), Little Billee became fractious and intractable. And it was only on Taffy's promising that he would go all the way to Devonshire with him on the morrow, and stay with him there, that he could be got to dress and dine.

The huge Taffy lived entirely by his affections, and he hadn't many to live by—the Laird, Trilby, and Little Billee.

Trilby was unattainable, the Laird was quite strong and independent enough to get on by himself, and Taffy had concentrated all his faculties of protection and affection on Little Billee, and was equal to any burden or responsibility all this instinctive young fatherly might involve.

In the first place, Little Billee had always been able to do quite easily, and better than any one else in the world, the very things Taffy most longed to do himself, and couldn't, and this inspired the good Taffy with a chronic reverence and wonder he could not have expressed in words.

Then Little Billee was physically small and weak, and incapable of self control. Then he was generous; amiable, affectionate, transparent as crystal, without an atom of either egotism or conceit; and had a gift of amusing you and interesting you by his talk (and his complete sincerity) that never palled; and even his silence was charming—one felt so sure of him, so—there was hardly any sacrifice, little or big, that big Taffy was not ready and glad to make for Little Billee. On the other hand, there lay deep down under Taffy's surface intransigence and earnestness a harmless vanity of the strong man, a long-suffering patience, a real humility, a robustness of judgment, a sincerity and all-roundness, a completeness of sympathy, that made him very good to trust and safe to lean upon. Then his powerful impressive aspect, his great stature, the gladiator-like poise of his small round head on his big neck and shoulders, his huge deltoids, his clean-cut ankles and wrists, all the long and bold and highly-finished athletic shapes of him, that easy grace of strength that made all his movements a pleasure to watch, and any garment look well when he wore it—all this was a perpetual feast to the quick, prepossessive, aesthetic eye. And then he had such a solemn, earnest, lovable way of bending powers round his neck, and breaking them on his arm, and jumping his own height (or near it), and lifting up arm-chairs by one leg with one hand, and what not else!

So that there was hardly any sacrifice, little or big, that Little Billee would not accept from big Taffy as a mere matter of course—a fitting and proper tribute rendered by bodily strength to genius. Par noble, fratrum—well met and well mated for fast and long-enduring friendship.

The family banquet at Monsieur Passell's would have been dull but for the irrepressible Dodo, and

AT THE THEATERS

PURE REALISM IN MIDNIGHT ALARM, AT THE GATEWAY

David Smith, director of "The Midnight Alarm," the Vitaphone special production which will be exhibited at the Gateway theater today, is so insistent on realism that he has barred use of any tricks to obtain thrill illusions.

In making "The Midnight Alarm," he refused to set aside his rule, in order to simplify the taking of many daring scenes. One of the most important scenes of this type is the wrecking of an automobile

WORK

You who would shirk and consume yourself with fretfulness,
There's nothing like work; it will bring you rare forgetfulness.

You who would rest in the lap of sloth and laziness,

Work is the best thing to cure that mental haziness.

Up on your toes with a bit of zest and snappiness; Catch ere it goes that one chance to find you happiness.

Never you'll throb with the thrill that you are sighing for Till you get a job and strive for things worth trying for.

Don't sit there wishing and idling and wondering. There at the forge don't you hear the hammers thundering?

Far in the forest where snows are white and wintering. Hear now the trees that are crashing and splintering. Hear ye the saw and the axe and sledge inviting you Out of the gloom, for the beacon Work is lighting you Out on the way, and the worriment that's killing you Lifts like a mist when the zest of work is filling you.

Go get a job! And it matters not what kind it is. Do it with zest and in time to come you'll find it is All that is needed to drive away your fretfulness; Go, do your work, it's the thing to bring you cheerfulness. What be your tools, go, lay them on with snappiness. Forget yourself in your work and find you happiness. Never you'll throb with the thrill that you are sighing for. Till you get a job and strive for things worth trying for.

by a train. In the old days, this would have been done by the use of miniature train and car.

Director Smith ordered a real wreck be made. Railroad officials when informed of the director's decision demurred.

"It's too dangerous," they objected. "The train crew might be killed."

"It can and will be done," retorted Smith. And it was done.

"The Midnight Alarm" is a story of a plotting business man to win an orphan's fortune. Alice Calhoun, distinguished Vitaphone star, plays the leading role of Sparkle, the orphan. Joseph Kilgour is the villain. Percy Marmont is the fireman sweetheart, while Cullen Landis is posed as a likeable young crook.

REAL ACTING AND BRILLIANT CAST IN PLAY AT T. D. & L.

The audience at the T. D. & L. theater last night were plainly pleased with "The Spider and the Rose," the B. F. Zeldman Production shown for the first time in Glendale. Real acting ability backed up by a story that never lets down for a minute combined to make a picture that will go down in amusement history.

"The Spider and the Rose" is different than the average film story and therein lies its excellence. Mission life in California when that state was a province of Mexico under the reign of Maximilian I, is pictured as the scene of an active series of events that seem to be a page from the book of life of that period.

A cast that should draw crowds in itself was selected for "The Spider and the Rose," and every part, no matter how small, is entrusted to a player of renown. Gaston Glass and Alice Lake are the principals in a swiftly moving love story and are ably supported by such well known artists as Noah Berry, Frank Campeau, Edwin Stevens, Alec B. Francis, Richard Headrick, Joseph J. Dowling, Andrew Arbuckle, Louise Fazenda and Harry Northup.

"THE GIRL WHO CAME BACK" AT THE GLENDALE

Coming today at the Glendale theater is a colorful dramatic play that answers the age old question, "Can they come back?" It tells of a girl who was down and out, the world against her. She resolved she would get back and she did. There are many tense situations which are superbly carried through by a great cast, numbering in its membership such headliners as Kenneth Harlan, Murian Cooper, Gaston Glass, Zasu Pitts, Ethel Shannon, Joseph Dowling, Fred Malatesta and Mary Culver. Then there's a large Larry Semon comedy in two parts, "The Barnyard." Of course, Paul Carson is at the organ.

"HOWDY DAY" AT GLENDALE HIGH BEING OBSERVED

"Howdy Day," a semi-annual occasion, is being observed today at Glendale Union High school.

The purpose of this observance, according to Mrs. Ethel Moyse, vice-principal, is to encourage the students to become acquainted with each other. She remarked this morning that the student body is now so large that many pupils do not know even their own classmates. She added that the faculty is doing everything in its power to retain its personal contact with the students and to give them as much individual attention as possible.

Excitement prevails at the high school today in anticipation of the commencement of the football season. First games in the Central Athletic league are being played this week. The first lightweight game is being held this afternoon with South Pasadena, and the first heavyweight game will be held tomorrow afternoon at South Pasadena High school.

An abundance of enthusiasm for this game was expressed at yesterday's rallies. In order that as many students as possible may attend the game school will close at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon. Students will be expected to return home before going to South Pasadena.

Principal George U. Moyse, who has been attending the superintendent's state convention this week at Riverside, is planning to attend the game.
